Beatrice (Beattie) Dawson (nee Williams) attended NFSS from 1922 to 1931.

My school days at NFSS were one of the happiest periods of my life. I will always be grateful for my learning there. Teachers were kind and understanding and made every effort to promote your learning.

Some of my memories are of Miss Meade playing the organ for eurhythmics; most school books were given to you free of charge and good copy books were entered in the RNA. If you were not of age to leave school (14 years) and could not go to High School, you stayed at school and sometimes gave assistance to children in the Opportunity Class. While at school we started to contribute to the building of a swimming pool in the school grounds.

There were excellent sports teachers - most of us became Queensland representatives in many sports. NFSS had very little grounds so the Valley Playground, opposite Municipal Baths, was our after school sports area. Our basketball team were the Premiers for 3 years running. The team went on to become Women's Basketball 1933 Qld Representatives to Adelaide, then 1938 to Melbourne.

Terrance, my son, attended the school from 1944 to 1948 and my daughter Barbara was a teacher at the school in the early 1970s.

In the 1970s, I was the local Council Alderman. I was involved in helping the school purchase the house in James Street next to the tennis court. This area became a miniature rainforest.

John (Con) Koppenol attended NFSS from 1923 to 1932.

John Koppenol's mother emigrated from Wales and his father from Holland. They lived in New Farm and John attended New Farm State School. His childhood in the 1920s was a happy one. As a young boy, there were always many interesting and exciting things to do and see - such as New Farm Park, the old Wool Stores railway and the Valley. On more than one occasion, John and others would make their way to the house of the late Sir Samuel Griffith (who lived a few streets away) and sit in his horse-drawn coach which was housed in a garage.

Notes of 1925

Our Nation

- Radio station 2UE, Australia's oldest "B" class (commercial) station, began broadcasting in Sydney.
- Election for House of Representatives and half Senate (the first federal election under compulsory voting). Bruce Page's government re-elected with a large majority.
- Windbag won the Melbourne Cup, which was broadcast for the first time.

Our State

- First election held for the Greater Brisbane Council.
- William McCormack replaced W. Gillies as Premier of Qld.

Our Capital City

- Brisbane Repertory Theatre was established.
- Eagle Farm was officially chosen as an airport in Brisbane.
- Petrol-driven buses first appeared in Brisbane.
- First elections for the Greater Brisbane Council.
- Brisbane's first radio station, 4QG, owned by the State Government commenced transmission, initially temporarily set up in the State Government Executive Building before moving to the State Insurance Building, then the city's tallest building.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Miss K. McGrath, daughter of Head Teacher Mr P. McGrath was transferred to the teaching staff of NFSS from Ellesmere. She taught there until her transfer to Wondai in 1931.
- School closed on 17 Aug due to a holiday granted by the Minister.

Norman Rogers attended NFSS from 1926 to 1934.

Norman Rogers remembers the Pieman, in his horse and cart - meat pie and peas for 3d. In the Depression years, the fathers of some of our fellow students on "relief work" digging up the school grounds. The fancy dress balls, held in the theatre on the corner of Kent and Brunswick Streets. Free milk for all students - some of us would go down to D'Arcy's store, corner James and Heal Streets and collect enough for our class.

Mrs Jean Black (nee Lather) attended NFSS in the 1920s.

My father, Mr F. Lather, was treasurer of the School Committee for many years. My mother, Elsie Butler, was one of the first pupils of NFSS, she went to the Valley School before NF was opened.

In 1932, Mr Lather and the School Committee instigated a "nourishment scheme" costing approx. 30/- per week. The scheme meant that all needy children received a bottle of milk and biscuits.

Our Nation

• Northern Australia Act divided the Northern Territory into North Australia and Central Australia, each with a separate administration. (Took effect 1 Mar 1927; NT reverted to a single entity in 1931).

• General Motors (A/asia) Pty Ltd began operations in Australia, with assembly plants in Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide and Perth; bodies supplied by Holden in Adelaide.

• Pedal radio transmitter developed by A.H. Traeger.

Our State

• SS Dorrigo sinks off Double Island Point; 22 lives lost; captain and his son rescued after 34 hours on a raft.

• John Oxley Memorial Library, Brisbane, established. (Officially opened in 1934.)

• Eggs of the caterpillar Cactoblastis cactorum released in Qld and NSW to control prickly pear.

Our Capital City

• McTaggart's Woolstore was constructed at Newstead.

• Mixed bathing now permanently permitted at the Spring Hill Baths.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

• Mr Moxey was transferred from Carney's Creek to NFSS. He was a classroom teacher. In 1934 he was transferred to Eagle Junction. In Sept 1944 he was appointed Teacher of Music.

Sam Rayner attended NFSS from 1926 to 1934. On my fifth birthday I began at the NFSS about 400 metres away and afterwards walked there each day with Beattie Hooper, a near-neighbour. As others in the class had begun at the beginning of the year, some weeks were spent at the bottom of the First "Babies" class with strict Ada Mills.

Soon after, a great shock was to be taken from home with diphtheria and locked up with strangers in an isolation ward in the Brisbane Hospital.

At first my younger brother Ken was with me but as he soon also developed chicken pox, he was taken to another ward to avoid infecting the others. As Dad, Madge and Aunt Rita were also isolated at home as possible carriers, it could not have been often that mother was able to see us through the mesh that penned us in. After returning to school, I started again in First "Babies". Over the next two years, there was uneventful progress through 2nd, 3rd, and 4th "Babies" classes.

1928 was a year of interrupted schooling due to a trip to England. When I rejoined my former class I again became the backward pupil. At this time we were in a dull unlighted classroom in the basement on the Hawthorne Street side. The northern light was blocked out by the rocky bank on that side (that was not cleared until it was excavated by "relief" workers in the thirties). There was also an Opportunity classroom on that side which cut out more light - it was almost impossible to see on dark stormy days. There were some electric lights in the more modern Infants School but I don't recall any in the main school - certainly not in the basement classrooms.

In 1929, with a new teacher, my place in the monthly examinations improved. By the end of the year, I was competing with my future brother-in-law Jim Liley.

In 1930 the earlier system of class promotion every six months was replaced by a system of one-year grades. As part of the resulting amalgamations, a few of the better pupils in some classes were given the opportunity of early promotion to the next higher grade. After two earlier experiences of being a backward pupil, I persuaded mother to refuse the offer and stayed with my normal age group.

About the same time, most classes spent half an hour each week for music with a teacher, Alan Moxey, also conductor of the Brisbane choir. During an early singing lesson, he walked around listening to each of us, paused, and said to me, "Get a card of sums, sit in the back seat, and be quiet."

I am sure that variation on music lessons improved my arithmetic considerably.

The best NFSS sporting team at that time was the 1930 football premiers; their photo hung in one of the classrooms.

The year 1932 began with a major polio epidemic; schools closed for a month or more and lessons were published in the daily newspaper. In Grade V, Moxey was a firm teacher and I probably topped the class in most monthly exams. This could have produced some complacency for next year. After a few weeks, teacher John Morris in Grade VI, upbraided me in class with the comment "You were supposed to be good but you'll never be as good as Bob McNicol" (Bob had done very well in an earlier Scholarship Exam and later became a senior lecturer in Physics). That may have spurred me on, for the only New Farm report I have showed that at the end of Grade VI, I had topped the class of 34 with 91%. Morris took the school cricket team to other schools on Friday afternoons and I went as official scorer and possibly as 12th man.

1934 was the Scholarship year (Grade VII). The teacher, Coyle, immediately increased the small amount of homework in earlier grades and I was up until 9.30pm or later trying to locate unknown Queensland places, like the Blackbutt Ranges, not on any map. On the second Friday, he returned after lunch acting oddly and the

Headmaster Pat McGrath took him away. He was replaced by Tom Ritchie then the slightly odd Miss Joyce, an elderly teacher. She remained with us for the rest of the year. By the end of the year I was in first place.

During 1934, I played in the New Farm cricket and tennis teams. For cricket we played against Fortitude Valley, Chermiside and others that had a cricket pitch. In tennis there were home and away games against three other schools. Our team of four was Norm Rogers, Jack Bragg, myself and at first Ted Singleton and later Fred Cranston.

At the end of Grade VII, the State Scholarship Examination was held. Those who passed the compulsory subjects, Mathematics and English, and who gained 50% overall were eligible to enter a State High School or, if they chose a private secondary school, would have a fee subsidy. In 1934 only 54% of the candidates passed (a typical percentage in those years) and thousands of others did not sit; as poor results of a class or school reflected on the teacher, there was intense pressure for pupils to do well. I was soon accustomed to the greater load and also played more sport than in earlier years. Schooling at New Farm ended with the happy break-up day on the final Friday. There was a long weekend for revision and then the Scholarship candidates from New Farm and other schools assembled at the Fortitude Valley school where, after a harangue from the stern chief supervisor, we had 2½ hours for the first paper, English. After a 2 hour lunch break, we took the 1½ hour Geography paper. On Wednesday, there was 2½ hours for the Mathematics paper and 2 hours in the afternoon for the History paper. The concentrated examination period and the busy Grade VII work were good preparation for busy examination periods in later years.

The Mathematics paper consisted of 31 sections of questions from geometry, algebra, weights and measures and various aspects of arithmetic. Although some items required only simple mental arithmetic, others were more unusual and I doubt if I could now do a near-perfect answer in the time available. The results were announced in the newspaper several days before the end of summer vacation and subject details were held in the school. Mine were:
Mathematics 125/150 English 117/150
History 70/100 Geography 66/100 Overall percentage 75.6%

I was disappointed that I had not done better in History but later found that I had done much better overall than anyone else in the

Notes of 1927

Our Nation

- Duke and Duchess of York (later King George VI and Queen Elizabeth) arrived in Sydney on a visit to all States.
- Duke of York opened Parliament House in Canberra, which became the official seat of government of the Commonwealth of Australia.
- Commonwealth Parliament began sitting in Canberra.
- The Australian Postal Department officially opened its telegraph line between east and west.
- Aborigines protested against the removal of sacred stones by a tourist in Central Australia.
- Child endowment scheme was introduced.
- North Australia Commission took over control of Northern Territory.

Our State

- 584 738 koalas and 1 014 632 possums slain in Queensland in one month (August).
- Oil was discovered in Roma with the local bore setting an Australian record, 50 gallons an hour, for oil production.

Our Capital City

- Lone Pine Sanctuary opens.
- New Farm Powerhouse was built.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Opportunity classes started on 24 Jan and continued until Dept instructions stated "Opportunity classes are to cease on 15 Dec 1933." Teachers of these classes were Miss L. Neale 1927 - 1929 and Miss L. Gooch 1930 - 1933.

class. With 75% I was one of the few who gained exemption from tuition fees at Church of England Grammar School.

(Footnote: Sam Rayner later went on to universities in Queensland, Melbourne and Illinois as a teacher, research officer and University administrator).

Notes of 1928

Our Nation

- Bert Hinkler landed at Darwin in his Avro Avian after a record-breaking (15½ days) solo flight from London (first solo flight from the UK to Australia).
- Speedo swimsuits first produced.
- Bert Appleroth founded the Aeroplane Jelly company in Sydney.

Our State

- Australian Inland Mission's Flying Doctor Service began operating from Cloncurry.

Our Capital City

- The first "talking pictures" The Jazz Singer starring Al Jolson, opened in Brisbane.

Madge Liley (nee Rayner) attended NFSS from 1928 to 1935.

The teachers - "old" Miss Mills in Babies class - "young" Miss Mills came later - she used to send notes to "young" Mr Morris (I carried one once). Miss Keating who taught by mother at Leichardt Street school; Miss Mead who we had in Grades 4, 5 and 6; Miss Singer in Grade 2 (she was really "scotty") and Miss Joyce in scholarship.

Playing hopscotch in the quadrangle; "beam" under the infants school; "red rover" and "bedlam" on the Hawthorne Street side; tennis for the school on Friday afternoons. Being put out of Mr Moxey's choir because I couldn't sing in tune.

Donald B. MacDonald attended NFSS from 1928 to 1937.

The bad days of the depression when school friends took food from the rubbish bins. The men leveling the top playground using only hand tools to remove the rock. Arguments between boys were settled by fights in the Methodist church grounds because it was the only grassed area available.

Margaret Gilmour attended NFSS from 1929 to 1937.

My very first day I was put in Prep I with 69 other students. 'Young' Miss Mills was the teacher and I liked her but I was a bit overwhelmed by everything and many tears were shed. My parents promising threepence at the end of each week that I didn't cry solved the problem of daily tears.

School parades were very formal with a regimental saluting of the flag. The children marched into school to the beat of a kettledrum played by one of the pupils. The War Memorial once had four drinking fountains, one at each corner.

I remember envying the girls in the eurythmics classes, dressed in Grecian-style dresses and performing graceful movements to music. These classes ceased by the time I was old enough to be included. I recall being taught to dance a minuet for the school ball, with children being dressed in period costume complete with wigs and beauty spots. The Ministers of the various denominations always took Religious Instruction weekly and Bible reading was also part of the curriculum.

Notes of 1929

Our Nation

- Charles Kingsford Smith, C.T.P. Ulm, H.A. Litchfield and T.H. McWilliams left Sydney in the Southern Cross to fly to England but were forced down 400 km from Wyndham, WA. (Found 16 April.)
- Kookaburra, an aircraft that had gone searching for the Southern Cross, was found with its crew, Keith Anderson and H.S. Hitchcock, dead from thirst.
- Peters ice-cream first produced in Melbourne.
- First airmail stamp was issued.
- Hoyts convert 20 suburban theatres from 'silent' to 'talkie'.

Our State

- McCormack government defeated in the Qld election; A. E. Moore became Premier.
- Irene Longman, the first woman elected to the Qld parliament, won the seat of Bulimba.

Our Capital City

- Australia's first Russian Orthodox Church was built in Brisbane.
- Hoyts opened the Regent Theatre in Brisbane. This was one of the first air-conditioned buildings in the city. The first film shown was Fox Follies accompanied by Movietone News.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Head Teacher Mr McGrath reported that the grounds need to be extended to Annie Street. A reply was received that this was very desirable but would be very costly - several house properties would have to be purchased.
- Installation of sewerage at a cost of £2 136.
- Attendance throughout the year was affected by diphtheria, scarlet fever, influenza and mumps.

Our Nation

- Sales tax imposed for the first time by the Federal government.
- Don Bradman scored a record 452 not out for NSW against Queensland and 334 in a test match against England at Leeds.
- Phar Lap won the Melbourne Cup.
- First milk bar in Australia opened in Sydney.

Our State

- Royal commission into the sale of Mungana Mines to the Qld government found former Premiers E.G. Theodore and William McCormack guilty of fraud and dishonesty.
- Queensland National Anzac Memorial, Brisbane dedicated on 11 Nov.

Our Capital City

- Brisbane City Town Hall opened in April after construction commenced in 1919. Great emphasis was placed on using local materials in the construction. The exterior is Helidon sandstone, the plinth Camp Mountain granite and the interior woodwork silky oak and Queensland maple.
- First Brisbane to Sydney commercial air flights commenced.
- First direct Brisbane to Sydney rail link opened.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Attendance affected by a number of cases of chicken pox, mumps, influenza, sore eyes and diphtheria.

James Harrison attended NFSS from 1930 to 1936

New Farm in the thirties was an area just surviving the depression. There were fire-wood men with horse and cart (two bags for eighteen pence). There were bread carts and milk carts with milk straight from the dairies in large milk cans with taps to decant the milk into pint measure pots. There were street cleaners who cleaned out gutters and shovelled rubbish into giant carts pulled by Clydesdale draught horses.

Mum helped with Oslo lunches for children of relief workers during the depression. The school had gravelly dirt grounds and the boys were always sporting knees with gravel rashes.

Around the corner in James Street was Garnett's Grocer. Mr Garnett was the old fashioned grocer with white apron from neck to ankles. He cut his great cheeses with a wire and broomstick handle. The butter came in 56lb butter boxes made of timber. Then a grid was passed through the butter cutting it into 1 or ½ pound sections. The whole place smelt of newly cut ham, cocoa, coffee and tea and the floor was covered with sawdust (so was the butchers) a regulation of the time.

New Farm State School Girls' Choir. Teacher: Mr Moxey.
Winners Murwillumbah Eisteddfod, 1931.

Audrey Hackett (nee Cross) attended NFSS from 1931 to 1939.

The pupils walked from the school to City Hall and back to attend functions, such as the Qld Symphony Orchestra and Choir Eisteddfod, that were held at City Hall. The Choirmaster being Mr Moxey. Head teachers were Mr McGrath, Mr Lister and Mr Curry. Other teachers were Mr Dunstan, Mr Garvey, Miss Cunningham, Miss Joyce and Miss Mead (who played the piano for the school balls etc). We also walked to the Valley Baths and back to the school. Several pupils living at Hawthorne used the cross-river ferry as I did. I was always afraid of losing the halfpenny sliding around in my port for the return ferry fare.

After alighting from the ferry, we had to cross a rail line which trains used to transport sugar from the refinery and coal to the New Farm Power House.

The pupils looked forward to a yearly event which was a boat trip to Redcliffe on the SS Koopa. It departed from the Sugar Refinery at the New Farm wharf. It was most enjoyable to inhale the sea breezes as we sat on the open deck crossing the bay. We carried a picnic lunch from Redcliffe jetty to Suttons Beach where we also had a swim.

Another yearly event which was memorable was Armistice Day Remembrance on 11 November held at the Memorial adjacent to the basket ball court.

Towards the end of my schooling tuckshop was introduced once a week. It was held under the school building on tables facing the parade ground.

Notes of 1931

Our Nation

- Sir Isaac Isaacs, the first Australian-born Governor-General, sworn in; Sir Frank Gavan Duffy succeeded him as Chief Justice.
- ANA airliner Southern Cloud disappeared on a flight between Sydney and Melbourne. (Wreckage found in the Snowy Mountains in 1958)
- Holden Motor Body Builders merged with the US firm General Motors to form General Motors-Holden Ltd.
- Arthur Carrington Smith developed a system of recording sound on film subsequently used by Cinesound Productions.

Our State

- Cyclones caused flooding from Innisfail to Brisbane, where more than a thousand houses were inundated and two men drowned.
- Brisbane airport moved from Eagle Farm to Archerfield.

Our Capital City

- Cannon Hill saleyards opened.
- Diphtheria immunisation program began.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Attendance affected by epidemics of whooping cough, influenza, scarlet fever and diphtheria.
- Deputation made to Hon Minister by Committee Representatives re acquiring additional land.
- Introduction of a Nourishment and Prevention of Waste Scheme. The scheme involved each child being provided with a ¼ pint bottle of milk and two wholemeal biscuits at 11.00am. At 12.30pm, before they commenced their own lunch, children and teachers were to provide any food they felt they could spare. At 12.30pm to 12.45pm any child needing food was provided with some by an attendant. Any food left over was covered with clean tea towels and after dismissal, this food was distributed by attendants to children needing it.

Notes of 1932

Our Nation

- Sydney Harbour Bridge officially opened by the NSW Premier, Mr Jack Lang (but New Guard member F.E. De Groot cut the ribbon before him).
- Phar Lap died in California, USA.
- Australian Broadcasting Commission established and took over all "A" class stations.
- Dog on the Tuckerbox pioneer memorial unveiled by Prime Minister J.A. Lyons.
- Stan McCabe scored 187 not out in the first test of the "bodyline" series.
- Taxation in Australia was the second highest in the world. Britain was the highest.
- Unemployment soared with 30% of trade union members now unemployed.

Our State

- Labor government elected in Qld.
- William Forgan Smith became Premier.

Our Capital City

- The William Jolly Bridge crossing the Brisbane River opened.
- Ambrose Palmer won the Heavyweight Boxing title in Brisbane when he defeated Jack O'Malley.
- Lores Bonney, Brisbane's own aviatrix, became the first female pilot to fly around Australia. Later in 1933 she became the first woman to fly solo from Australia to England.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

• F. Daly, Hon Secretary NFSS Committee submitted a proposal that "part of Hawthorne Street should be closed and gates provided for pedestrians. This would add over ¼ of an acre to the school grounds area and would be worth at least £200 to the Department and would be a great boon for playing purposes." The Brisbane City Council strenuously objected to the closure due to delay and inconvenience to residents, properties affected would depreciate and it would create two dead end streets.

Hazel Borrows (nee Marchant) attended NFSS from 1932 to 1937.

My first day at school sitting next to Claire Lee and running home at "little lunch" because I was frightened of Mr McGrath (Headmaster). Sewing lessons on Friday afternoons and hating it because I was hopeless. Marching around the oval forming twos, fours, eights in preparation for the fancy dress ball.

Florence O'Brien (nee Charles) attended NFSS from 1927 to 1933

Remembers "playing tennis and being in the school basketball team. For interschool matches we went by tram with a teacher but came home by ourselves".

Florence's daughter Lorraine Tomlinson attended

NFSS 1953 to 1960. Lorraine became a music (piano) teacher and has taught many New Farm children to play piano.

Lorraine's daughter Kylie attended NFSS from 1984 to 1990. She also teaches piano to New Farm children.

Valerie Matthew (nee Baldwin) attended NFSS from 1933 to 1939.

Mid 1933, Valerie Baldwin not quite 5 years old, started school at New Farm Primary School. At that time, there were 1st and 2nd Babies and Miss Keating was in charge, a kindly lady of advanced years. Her forte was spelling. Mr Rowe, a youngish man, and Mr Halvorson, who wrote in my autograph book, "May your joys be as deep as the ocean, and your sorrows as light as its foam."

The Headmaster was Mr Lister, a slight man who carried a cane all the time, very strict and was never afraid of using it. I can't remember us ever resenting him, he was a man of authority. School was serious business in the 1930s - English, Arithmetic, Geography, History, Sports and singing with Mr Moxey. We had good grounding at NFSS. This was the time when our nation was coming out of the Depression and things were still hard. No swimming pool, playground equipment and can't remember a library but we did have a break-up with cherries, watermelon, cakes and goodies. We played red rover, tiggy, hop scotch, statues and skipping. The girls had sewing and I can remember the dog's teeth hems we did - it always seemed to be hemming.

Notes of 1933

Our Nation

- Bert Hinkler died in a plane crash in Italy on a flight from England to Australia.
- E.G. Theodore and Frank Packer (Sydney Newspapers Ltd) having agreed not to publish a Sydney evening daily, launched the Australian Women's Weekly.

Our State

- Sister Elizabeth Kenny opened her first infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis) clinic in Townsville.

Our City

- The Brisbane Courier and the Daily Mail merged to form the Courier Mail.
- The Great Depression caused high unemployment and the Brisbane City Council introduced relief work in the areas of road construction, flood prevention and construction of public facilities.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Removal of the Girls' external lavatory block and erection and completion of a new lavatory block with W.C. installations under the school.

There was a lot of rivalry between the convent pupils and our school. It seemed to happen on the way home from school. We had to walk down the hill from the school's James Street gate. The convent kids had to walk the other side of the cutting and there would be verbal warfare every afternoon.

When I come to think of it, it was ridiculous but it was full on then. Unfortunately, I used to take it to heart and go home in tears much to my mother's annoyance. Things have changed now I hope - Hugh Lunn mentioned such goings on in his book 'Over the Top with Jim' so it must have happened everywhere.

Our Nation

- Qantas Empire Airways (QEA) formed in association with Imperial Airways of Britain to operate the Singapore-Brisbane section of the England-Australia air trunk route.
- Inaugural flight of QEA-Imperial Airways airmail service between Australia and England left Brisbane.
- Hollow plywood surfboards began to replace solid wooden boards.
- The Flying Doctor service was expanded from Queensland to Western Australia.

Our State

- Cyclone swept north Qld from Thursday Island to Townsville, causing the sinking of several pearling luggers and the loss of 75 lives.
- Charles Kingsford Smith and P.G. Taylor left Brisbane in the Lady Southern Cross on the first west-east crossing of the Pacific (arrived Oakland, California, 4 Nov).
- Long-range weather forecaster Inigo Jones built an observatory at Croyhamurst.

Our Capital City

- Australia's first television transmission took place between the Windmill in Wickham Terrace and Red Hill.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Excavations in the playground to build a retaining wall 154' long by 3'6" high on Hawthorne Street side.
- White ants were eating door supports and pine frames.

Bill Witt attended NFSS from 1933 to 1941

I often think of the way we got around in the 1930s. No mums with cars to transport us. We all walked to and from school, except for when I could catch a ride on our baker's horse and cart on the way home. My favourite sport was cricket. Other schools in our zone were Valley (remember Wally Grout?), Prep 3 1934. Teacher: Miss Walsh.

William Witt is second from right middle row.

Windsor, Eagle Junction and Virginia (remember Ken Mackay?). When we walked out to bat at Valley, the fieldsmen would say, "Watch out for the wicket-keeper, he will stump you". By the time I got to the crease I was shaking in my boots. Our home cricket pitch was in Beeston Street on the flat ground behind the woolstores. This is now covered by a warehouse. I also enjoyed hockey which we played at Victoria Park. After a match we would walk up the grassy hill towards Gregory Terrace, playing war games on the way, using our hockey sticks as guns, followed by a Coca Cola at the corner store. Coke had just become a craze. Then we would walk home.

There was the Fife and Drum Band. Mr Tuller would go around the northern schools teaching us. They recruited likely musicians for the Young Australia League Boys Military Band. I was lucky to be included.

All of the above were really extra-curricular activities which helped lay a foundation for our future lives. As for the 3Rs, we also received a very good grounding from teachers like Miss Mead, Mr Flint and Miss Suttie (my favourite). My father gave a small weeping fig tree to the school and it was duly planted behind the boys' toilet. It grew into a magnificent tree.

I look back with fondness on my days at NFSS and thank everyone concerned with our education for a very thorough grounding in our formative years.

out; it was either dried in the oven and made into breadcrumbs or used in bread and butter pudding preferable for most of us to frogs eyes (tapioca) or sago. Bread and dripping wrapped in newspaper was a common school lunch in Depression days and we more fortunate ones were often given extra to share with our friends. There was rationing during the war with a set number of coupons each for food and clothes. At New Farm State School along with the 3Rs, we were taught to darn and patch clothes and to dressmake. I can remember making dirndl (gathered) skirts from small tablecloths (no coupons required). During the Depression, there were more than 700 000 Australians existing on sustenance - "susso" as it was then called.

This was in the form of food coupons for a cash value but no help was given towards rent, clothing or medicines. So churches and charities did their best. Many of the NFSS children were poorly clothed. "Relief" workers were used on public construction - many were professional men unused to hard physical work. The Depression affected all sectors of the community.

Men trudged the streets selling needles, cottons, matches, pegs and other small items. My mother nearly always gave them a cup of tea and a few biscuits which they would eat sitting on the back steps. When she died in 1987 her drawers were still full of rusty needles and threads - more than she had needed in a long lifetime. All the trades people delivered daily by horse and cart. The ice man was probably the most popular. He would cut the block to the size the housewife wanted - 1/2 block, 1/4 block - then race in with it wrapped in a sugar bag. We kids followed him all the way down the street for he gave us chips of ice. The postman delivered twice a day and once on Saturday. The milkman poured our milk into our jug - no pasteurization then. I remember the lovely smell in the grocer's shop for food was not packaged to the same extent as today. Food such as bacon and cheese etc, was cut up for you as required.

In the classroom, facilities were limited. We started with slates and graduated to pencils, pen and ink. Teaching was talk and chalk. Tables were learned by rote and we spent a lot of time chanting them. We had spelling bees until only the winner remained. Reading aloud was part of the daily routine. Much time and effort was spent on our exercise books with its copy book lettering and the title decorated with drawings of flowers or designs. There were weekly examinations of what we had been expected to have mastered and a big exam at the end of each quarter. Places in class were given and a report sent home. Teachers seemed what percentage passed the scholarship from NFSS but only a small number went on to secondary school from my class.

Rudyard Kipling's Kim was the book chosen for Scholarship study. We of the Never Never was another Scholarship book.

Hygiene was not neglected. Each teacher usually inspected our hands to make sure they were scrubbed and nails were clean. "Nits" were often a problem and a child usually got the "kerosene" treatment. We were also expected to show a clean hanky.

In school discipline was strict especially for the boys and the "cuts" (usually given by the headmaster) were fairly frequent. I remember one headmaster who had the knack of getting the tips of the fingers and then quickly coming up and catching the nails. Girls were often given lines to be written out a hundred times or sometimes kept in after school.

During the year, we commemorated Empire Day, Anzac Day and Arbor Day. On Empire Day, we celebrated our glorious history and I remember the teacher indicating to us on the map of the world the number of countries coloured pink. We glowed with pride. In retrospect we were mind-conditioned to be loyal British citizens. We saluted the flag each morning and marched into class knees high and arms swinging to the Fife band playing tunes like the British Grenadiers. There were pictures of the king around the school. Anzac Day was another day of pride and patriotism. We were told the story of Anzac Cove and Australia's glorious part in the campaign. Many of us were children of WWI veterans who attended the Dawn Service. A constant reminder of war were the liked games like hopscotch and "countries" or "film stars". In playing "countries", each child selected a country. One child was chosen to stand with her eyes closed in a central position while the others stood behind. A ball was tossed by the girl out front as she called India or Africa. That child was expected to catch the ball or she was out. A similar game was "film stars" where the girl out front gave the initials of a film star and we guessed in turn. If the answer was correct the chase was on to a given point. Other games were Bedlam and Red Rover. The boys played marbles in various ways or games lift operators, invariably veterans who had lost an arm or a leg. On Arbor Day we planted a tree, usually a native which, almost without fail, died in our stony playground in spite of the efforts of monitors to water them. Monitors were pupils given positions of responsibility to carry out such tasks as washing out inkwells, putting out books for certain periods, cleaning the blackboard and making sure the teacher had chalk etc.

Our games in the schoolyard were self-devised. Boys and girls mostly played separately. Girls with cigarette cards where the person flicked them against the wall. The one who got the closest without touching the wall took all the other cards. There were sets of Test cricketers, medals, wildflowers, flags of the world etc. Yo-yos and tops were popular at various times. Our pleasures were simple. We listened to the wireless as it was first called. There were serials like Dad and Dave - avidly followed. On Sunday night there was Lux Radio Theatre, a series of hourly plays and World Famous Tenors. My parents weren't quite so pleased when I wanted to rush home from church to hear Lowes Melody Hour which gave the "pop" tunes of the day. The pictures on Saturday night were a treat if our behaviour had warranted it. The Astor in those days had canvas reclining chairs and a coal brazier in winter to keep us warm. There would be a serial, movie-time news and 2 full-length films - very good value. The "goodies" always won over the "baddies" and we cheered and hissed. Most films seemed to be cowboys and Indians (with Tom Mix the favourite) and of course Tarzan. It was not until WW2 that films seemed to become more sophisticated. At age 13, I was deemed old enough to see Gone with the Wind - my first grown-up film.

My school days I remember as happy, though materially we did not have a lot. As children, we knew our parameters, with teachers and parents, which I am sure made it easier for us. We were not constantly exposed to disturbing advertisements nor were we under the pressures that children have today. We were never little adults as later generations were destined to become therefore our period of childhood was longer. Were we fortunate?

Claire Lee attended NFSS from 1932 to 1937. In Grade 4, my classroom on the Heal Street verandah was very close to my home. I always made sure I was never reprimanded loudly in class, as I would then have been corrected at home as well. It was the practice in those days that if there were too many in a class the top ones would be put up a grade to even the numbers. This meant that some children sat for scholarship at under 13 years. Pupils were divided into two classes: those doing scholarship and those who were not. At many schools, only 50% of pupils sat for scholarship.

David McGinley attended NFSS from 1933 to 1940.

During the Depression, "relief" workers were required to reduce the level of rocky ground (east of school wing) by several feet in depth. Students in classrooms under unlined verandahs would be covered in dust each time blasting took place. We listened to wireless (in D'Arcy's shop) of broadcasting of outbreak of WW2, 3 September 1939. We gathered around the window after school in Heal Street. Mr Pat Currie, Head Teacher, and WWI veteran was later recalled for service in WW2.

Our Nation

- Infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis) epidemic began, most severely in Victoria.
- Dad and Dave radio serial began.
- Assimilation of some Aborigines into the white community adopted as official federal policy.

Our State

- Stinson airliner crashed in Lamington National Park, near the Qld-NSW border; five killed. (Plane and two survivors found a week later by bushman Bernard O'Reilly).

Our City

- Foundations were laid for the new University of Queensland at St Lucia.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Measles and whooping cough outbreaks, as well as a number of wet days affected attendance.

Notes of 1938

Our Nation

- All exports of iron ore from Australia suspended (ostensibly to conserve supplies; actually to prevent export to Japan).
- At a meeting of 31 nations at Evian, France, Australia agreed to accept 15 000 political refugees from Europe.
- Tasman Empire Airways Ltd (TEAL) formed by the governments of Australia, NZ and the UK.
- Australian Red Cross Society started its Blood Transfusion Service.
- Australian Grand Prix held at Mount Panorama, Bathurst, NSW, for the first time.

Our State

- A DH86 Dragon crashed at Innisfail killing 5 people.

Our Capital City

- Brisbane Women's Hospital in Bowen Bridge Road opened at midnight on 25 March.

Bryan Eldridge (late) attended NFSS from 1938 to 1944. Notes from the 1976 booklet.

The Story Bridge was being completed and from the top storey of the school we could observe the connection from Kangaroo Point to Fortitude Valley completed.

Cricket became our first sport and the nets gave good practice for our 1st eleven and 2nd eleven. Rugby League was again started. In 1944 Tom Brisbane and myself were selected to represent North Brisbane against South Brisbane. I had the honour of being selected to represent Brisbane School Boys against Ipswich the same year. Many other New Farm School footballers later went on to play A grade for Valleys such as Kev McDougall, George Souvlis, Don Lind, Jim Lingard and myself. Possibly the most prominent representative sports person was Robyn Ebber who played for Australia at Wimbledon after learning her tennis on the old tennis court which was once an air raid shelter.

Les Bretherton attended NFSS from 1936 to 1943

The Head Teacher when I started school and when WW2 broke out was Colonel Currie. He rejoined the army and I can remember that, as part of our send off to him, we all learned to sing a humorous army song. It was called "The Quartermaster's Stores". I can recall some lines but there were many more verses.

Verse: There were buns, buns,
just fit for the guns
In the stores, in the stores
There were buns, buns,
just fit for the guns
In the Quartermaster's Stores.
Chorus: My eyes are dim, I cannot see
I have not brought my specs with me
I have not brought my specs with me.

Notes of 1939

Our Nation

- Australia declared war on Germany immediately following Britain's declaration of war. Next day, the first Allied shot fired in the war, as in World War I, was fired from Fort Nepean, Port Phillip, at an escaping German ship.

- Reintroduction of compulsory service in the militia announced (to begin 1 Jan 1940); unmarried men aged 21 to undergo three months' training.

- Sunday Telegraph* began publication in Sydney.

- Short wave radio service "Australia Calling" (later Radio Australia) began broadcasting in English, French, Dutch, and Spanish.

- The Vienna (Mozart) Boys' Choir and the Bodenwieser Ballet were trapped in Australia for the duration of the war.

Our State

- An 80-hour fortnight was granted to newspaper printers in Qld, through arbitration after a 3-day strike.

Our Capital City

- Thirty-seven men of the League for Social Justice, armed with batons and barbed wire, entered the Legislative Council Chambers at Parliament House and forcibly detained members of the Labor Caucus as hostages until their political demands were met. The raiders surrendered later to police.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Telephone service installed in the school. Cost £5/12/6 to cover first year's rental. 1¼d. for each effective local call.

- Request made for installation of electric light in the new top storey.

- Classrooms that were under the school (The Basement) were demolished.

Notes of 1940

Our Nation

- War Savings Certificates went on sale.
- Australia declared war on Italy (following Italy's declaration of war against Britain and France).
- Petrol rationing began.
- Call-up extended to age 33 for single men.
- Alex Gurney's comic strip "Bluey and Curley" began publication.

Our State

- Story Bridge, Brisbane, opened by the Qld Governor.

Our Capital City

- Luna Park Ballroom, later named Cloudland, opened.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- Electric lights installed in the Infants annexe - lights needed for class work, for dance evenings (fundraising by Committee) and other meeting occasions.
- Request received from Australian Air League for exterior light points on Infants buildings - for signalling drill which was held at night.

Edith Beryl Farnie Sang (nee Sams) attended NFSS from 1940 to 1947

As the war was on, we regularly practised Air Raid drills. The area under the Moreton Bay fig trees was excavated and had inter-connecting trenches. We would file down in our classes, clutching our First Aid kit (consisted usually of metal tobacco tin scrounged from somewhere in which resided, in my case a carefully rolled bandage of one of my father's singlets which had been gleefully donated to the War effort). We also had around our necks a Bone Identify tag with one's name and address burnt in and which we were told would identify us if we happened to be wounded or blown up as the case may be. In addition to this paraphernalia, we had a cord around our necks with a piece of rubber tubing through which the string was inserted, which we put in our mouths to bite on in case a bomb was dropped, thus ensuring we did not have our eardrums ruptured.

For our comfort, we all carried a homemade cushion of a fashion to sit on in the trenches in case we had to withstand a prolonged air raid!

Robert John Rees (arrow) NFSS 1929. Died HMAS Sydney WW2 1941.

James Alexander MacDonald attended NFSS from 1940 to 1948

We walked to school, my sister probably taking me in the early days. Later on I walked on my own around past Dodge Bros, and up James Street, past Cartwrights' shops. Very occasionally, I took the tram, alighting at either the Astor Theatre or the New Farm Police Station. From there one walked down and up either Heal or Annie Streets.

In the "big" school, I started at the end of the single storey section. This was the wing of the school which had the bell on the verandah and the "theatrette" underneath. In the theatrette, we were taken once a week to see short educational films. Mr Innes, a teacher, was the projectionist and he used a portable 16mm sound unit. What a wonderful job Mr Innes had - seeing all those 'free' pictures.

Across the passage from the head master's office were two rooms which could be opened up into one - by folding back large timber folding doors. In this large room-space was held "religious instructions". At times a lady representing the "Band of Hope" came and revealed to us the "terrors of drink". Those of us who signed the Pledge were rewarded with a badge and a birthday card posted to us until we turned 21. Martin Haley took me for Grade 6 and Grade 7 (Scholarship). Martin Haley was a refined gentleman who wrote poems and letters, some of which appeared in the columns of the Courier

Mail. Despite clashes, he was an elevating influence on me.

The War years - say 1940 to 1946 - had a significant effect on school life. There were large American camps near the Powerhouse, a hospital and jail. There were troops camped in the grounds of the sugar refinery. Dodge Bros were engaged in all types of military vehicle assembly, and they provided slit trenches for their employees on spare land in James Street, near the corner of Merthyr Road. This led to big movements of men and vehicles around the school. The navy was very busy on the New Farm wharf strip - and again many men around the suburb.

I think we started with slates and slate pencils. The slates slipped into vertical slots in the desk in front of the student. We progressed through to ink pens. The school supplied the ink in inkwells and a pen with replaceable nib, which was not replaced too often.

The ink for the pottery ware inkwells was made by a group of selected senior boys using powder and water and working in the drinking trough of the boys' wash room downstairs. I did not reach the giddy heights of ink mixer. I aspired to being a chalk duster attendant. You took the duster outside and banged it onto the brick building piers until the chalk dust dropped out of the felt. There were spin-off benefits for these monitors - you got to 'keep' the broken stubs of teachers' chalk.

Notes of 1941

Our Nation

- Payroll tax is introduced as well as Income tax payment by instalments introduced.
- Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbour.
- HMAS Sydney sank with the loss of 645 lives after a gunnery duel with the German raider Kormoran (which also sank) off the WA coast.
- Single men aged 18 to 45, and married men 18 to 35, called up for full-time duty.
- E.E. Owen of Wollongong, NSW, patented the Owen gun.

• Australian War Memorial opened in Canberra.

- R.G. Menzies resigned as Prime Minister.
- Andrew Barton (Banjo) Paterson, poet and journalist died.

Our State

• United Australia Party and Country Party members agreed to a merger, forming the Country-National Party.

Our Capital City

- The first contingent of United States service personnel disembarked in Brisbane.

During "little lunch" and lunch, we were expected to sit in designated areas. Boys and girls were to remain separate at all times - and playing with or talking to a girl was a punishable offence - who cares, what boy wanted to anyway! Running around the grounds with arms outstretched as in an aeroplane - with appropriate engine and machine gun noises was miles better. We took leaves of those Moreton Bay Figs, trimmed them with our fingernails into propeller shapes - then, using a used match stick as a shaft, could, - by running - make the propeller turn. I don't recall there being one square inch of grass in the whole school ground - just stones, gravel and asphalt. Someone always had a skinned knee as a result of a fall onto this type of surface.

Our Nation

- Darwin bombed (the first of more than 60 air attacks); eight ships sank in the harbour and 240 people killed.
- Ration books issued.
- "Victory suits" and other simplified styles of clothing enforced by regulation to save materials, and "austerity" meals served in cafes and restaurants.
- Restriction imposed on interstate rail travel; priority permits required by civilians.

Our State

- Townsville experienced the first of three Japanese air raids.
- "Battle of Brisbane" between Australia and American servicemen; one Australian shot and killed by an American MP.

Our Capital City

- The Courier Mail published a "Dear Digger" column every week to cover the week's most newsworthy items, these were to help readers when corresponding with the military forces overseas.

Our Neighbourhood, Our School

- School closed for 20 days during year because it was considered to be in one of the main danger areas. Evacuation of the children in the early months of the year was extensive. No children under the age of 6 years were allowed to attend the school at any time during 1942.

The Right Reverend Dr Keith Rayner attended NFSS 1935 to 1942, (Primate of the Anglican Church in Australia 1991 - 1999)

The school was enlarged during my time by the addition of the second storey. Newer teaching devices for the time included educational films on Friday mornings in the little theatre beneath the school and in upper grades a weekly radio broadcast on current affairs. Many children came in bare feet in the 1930s and I was conscious of those whose parents were unemployed and on "relief".

The most colourful Headmaster was Mr Currie who served in the Army during the war. My most vivid memories are of my last year at school when we commenced some weeks late because of the need to dig slit trenches following Japan's entry into the war in December 1941. We had frequent air raid drills during that year.
